The Warren Court of Inquiry.

NEW YORK, November 19 .- At the Warren Court of Inquiry to-day J. H. Blackmore, an ex-Confederate lieutenant and ordnance officer in General Ransom's brigade, was examined at length. He gave the position of the brigade at the battle of Five Forks, and described the fire to which it was subected as terribly withering.

General Warren then took the stand. He gave testimony as to his own personal move-ments and those of his division commander at the battle of Five Forks. He received Sheridan's order relieving him on the 31st of March, and wrote it down the next day. In reply to a question whether he had said he would give Sheridan a few minutes to reconsider his action, he said he never made use of such an expression, nor of any irritating word whatever. To the question whether he had mode every effort in his power to carry out the orders of Sheridan objection was made by counsel, and a long discus-sion followed. To the question whether General Sheridan had remarked, "Swing round your right and we've got them," witness said no such expression had been used. General Warren also denied the statement made in court and in the press that during the battle the whole Fifth corps had been Discussion on the question addressed General Warren, whether he had made

A letter was offered in evi-dence from the late General Griffin, who was in Warren's command at Five Forks, and this also provoked a long discussion.

He belonged solely to Mr. Brewer down to the end of his two-yearold, when his trainer, Mr. Blanton, gave 2,500 guineas for half. Perhaps the most fortunate thing for them, in a monetary point of view, was the loss of the Derby, as it enabled them to get good prices about him for both the St. Leger and Cesarewitch. He has won for them in bets £50,000, making the state of ing his winnings in all for the season over $350,000. The site in Central Park chosen by the Executive Commission comprises the green, the ball-ground, and the square on which the Museum of Natural History stands. Much opposition to the use of any part of the Park for this purpose is manifested. The Park Commissioners say that their consent will not be given, and that legislation must be secured before the Park can be used. There appears to be a lack of harmony among the members of the Fair Commission.

A SENSELESS HOAX .- [Baltimore Sun.]-Very great annoyance has been occasioned the family of a respectable and well-known citizen residing on Madison avenue and numerous other victims by the malice of some person unknown, who has been sending postal cards to various tradesmen, profesional men, and others, summoning them to the house by postal cards purporting to require their services. On Thursday several leading physicians were invited to a consul-tation; an undertaker was summoned to bury the result of such a meeting; a dealer in musical instruments was invited to supand many others for various specified pur-poses, all of whom were disappointed when they were met by the apologies of the chief victim, who told his successive visitors that othis sort of thing had been going on all day, and he could not account for the malice which seemed to inspire his unknown

THE WEATHER HERE AND ELSEWHERE YESTERDAY.-Yesterday was like an April day here in many respects. It rained and then cleared off, and rained again and cleared away again. In fact, there was a succession of showers until about 2:30 P. M., when it cleared off beautifully. Elsewhere in the State from where our weather reports were received the weather was also variable. At Staunton and Lynchburg, for instance, there was a light snow during the day, which did not lie on the ground, and at 11 o'clock last night the weather was clear and cool. At Williamson's it was cloudy and cold, with a light snow during the forenoon. In West Virginia, at Huntington, it was cold and threatening snow, the mercury being down to 25°. It is mid that in "Boccaccio" Vos Suppe has given a work which challenges the ad-miration slike of those who can appreciate the best kind of music and of the playgoe: who asks for no more than pretty airs and lively chorases. The opera is full of nælody, but it contains nothing that is trivial or commonplace, and it admirably expresses the sensuous life of pleasure-seeking Florence as that city appears in the pages of the Decameron. There is a careless joyousness in all its strains which is perfectly in keeping with the theme the composer illustrates.

The Theatre will therefore be well patronized during the four nights and Thursday matinee of opera this week. For there is nothing which seems to delight the general Theatre-goer more than a pretty comic opera played by a good company with a strong chorus. These essentials to much enjoyment the Mahn company appears to possess, and it will please our people. Reserved seats may be procured at the Thea-

The distinguished humorist wa introduced in a very nest and pointed address by Mr. Steger. It is impossible to do the lecture justice in a brief notice. It was an interesting, instructive, and exceedingly amusing historical picture of a lifetim from the cradle to the grave. Mr. Burdett sustained his brilliant reputation, and won not only the repeated applicase but the larly. sympathy of one of the most critical au-diences he has ever appeared before. In the course of the lecture he announced that be would shortly make his bow to a Richmond "congregation" again, of which due notice will be given; and he also gratul-tously advertised the reading of a popular lady, who is expected here some time the present month.
